The Great East Japan Earthquake caused unprecedented damage. In addition to restoring operations at our business sites and supporting customers in the disaster-affected region, we have done our best since the earthquake to support recovery efforts by constructing temporary housing and ensuring reliable supplies of timber and building materials. Meanwhile, in our core businesses, we continue to actively work to meet public needs for safe and energy-efficient housing.

Facing the Future

Our home market is maturing as Japan's society ages. In contrast, emerging markets offer the potential for further growth. In order to create a balanced portfolio for the future, we have invested management resources to develop our overseas, renovation, and real estate businesses as new sources of earnings that complement our core businesses. Guided by this management vision, we will pursue sustainable business by utilizing the healthy and environmentally friendly characteristics of timber and target further growth while developing new businesses.
